Edward Snowden

"Arguing that you don't care about privacy because you have nothing to hide is no different than saying you don't care about Free Speech because you have nothing to ^{say} hide."

Edward J. Snowden (born June 12, 1983) is a computer security consultant and a former Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) employee. He is most popularly known for being the whistleblower who leaked extensive classified information about Global Surveillance Programs being run by the National Security Agency while working there as a subcontractor.

Big 5 Personality Traits

1. Openness to Experience : Very High

Snowden exhibits extremely high openness to experience as can be seen by his various occupations over the years, from being a US Army enlistee and a security guard to an author, IT Entrepreneur and Public Speaker. These serve as testament towards his great openness to experience.

2. Conscientiousness : High

Snowden's thorough planning paired with his legendary status as a cybersecurity specialist serve as testaments to his high attention to detail, combined with his dedication to the cause of advocating for privacy point towards high Conscientiousness.

3. Extraversion : Low

Multiple observers and reporters who have interacted with or listened to his talks have claimed that Snowden is quiet and shy, exhibiting low extraversion. These claims are further bolstered by his preference to solitary work.

Mark Zuckerberg

"Nothing influences people more than a recommendation from a trusted friend."

Mark E. Zuckerberg is an American entrepreneur and programmer best known as the co-founder of Meta (formerly Facebook). He began his journey as an entrepreneur at the surprisingly young age of 19 where he and his 4 friends launched Facebook which was at that point-in-time a simple social directory of Harvard students is a giant social media platform boasting a valuation of 1.84 Trillion USD.

Big 5 Trait Analysis

1. Openness to Experience: High

Zuckerberg, being the founder of a social media platform has shown great interest and initiative towards pushing into new domains, be it Artificial Intelligence, Virtual or Augmented Reality or the Metaverse, these serve as testaments to his interest in futuristic technology and making ^{them} more accessible to the people.

2. Conscientiousness: High

Ever since his days at Harvard, his peers have described him as intense focus, discipline and persistence which have carried onto his current self. ~~Na~~ Though he may have been unsuccessful at times, for example his journey into the domain of Metaverse which ended in failure. It has not deterred him from pursuing other, arguably ~~more~~ riskier ventures such as Artificial Intelligence.

3. Extraversion: Low

Zuckerberg, by his own admission, is "socially awkward" and has shown preference for written communication over verbal communication. His speeches too, point him as an emotionally distant person.

//_

4. Agreeableness: Moderate

Zuckerberg has repeatedly shown willingness to make seemingly unpopular decisions. He is shown to be somewhat reckless promoting a "move fast break things" ideology which is what sets him apart from most other entrepreneurs.

5. Neuroticism: Low

Zuckerberg is appears to handle pressure well and manages to remain calm and articulate under extreme scrutiny as can be seen in his hearings before the Senate and US Congress in 2018 and 2024.

Conclusion:

Mark Zuckerberg's personality traits paint the picture of a person who relentlessly pursues his goals, often disregarding the opinions or advice of other people. Someone who is emotionally distant but abnormally calm in situations that would have most people sweating.
